The question is what are they going to do with all their Tacetis the police have arrested. The twentieth was arrested on Saturday.

The independent republicans of Virginia have nominated an anti-Mahone ticket. This is one of the many ways the enemies of Mahone have devised to defeat him.

Charles McIlwaine, only nineteen years old, has been sentenced to death by electricity at Sing Sing prison, New York. It is likely that he and William Kemmler will be executed together.

In the Washington gossip is an item to the effect that "Secretary Knapp finds life at Washington less congenial than he had expected. He laughingly remarked not long ago that he wouldn't be president if he could." Uncle Jerry says a great many things to make people laugh.

An item from a Boston paper on Harvard college: For the first time in its history, Harvard has over two thousand students enrolled in its various departments. Ten years ago it had 1,350. At the same rate of increase it will have 3,000 students in 1920. But will this rate of growth continue? During the last decade the college has gained over four hundred students, or at the rate of 5 percent a year. The medical school meanwhile, has stood still. While the graduate department has doubled in numbers and the law school gained over 60 percent, the dental and divinity schools have scarcely gained anything. How will it be in the future? What has caused the difference in the past? These are questions which many of the friends of the college are asking to-day and to which satisfactory answers are not readily given.

The Philadelphia Times strikes the nail on the head when it says: "Ben Harrison is president of the United States and distinctly charged with the responsible duty of selecting and nominating men for the many responsible federal offices to be filled. Others may advise, demand and even contest, but the sole responsibility must rest with the president."—Inter Ocean.

That is a wonderful discovery for a democratic paper to make, and this reminds us of a few lines which we read, we think, in the Milwaukee Sentinel, on this point: "When Mr. Cleveland was president the Philadelphia Times held everybody but Mr. Cleveland responsible for the character of the appointments. Mr. Cleveland was the great 'Imposed Upon,' while members of congress and political leaders were held to account for bad appointments." The Times should inform its readers why it has changed its opinion since Cleveland was president.

These free traders who so often contend that the working people of the United States are hardly in any better condition than the working people of Europe, may be profited by reading the following item of interest:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 27.—Julius Goldschmidt, consul-general of the United States at Vienna, has furnished to the department of state a report upon the carpet industry of Austria-Hungary. He says there are eight establishments in his district operating 750 hand looms and 338 power looms. There are 2,411 laborers in all employed, who produce annually 3,227,000 florins worth of carpet. The men in Bohemia earn $2.40 to $3.60 a week; the women from $1.60 to $2; and the children from $1.10 to $2. In Austria the wages are: Men, $3.10 to $4.80; women, $1.90 to $2.60; children, $1.35 to $2.15. A day's work comprises eleven hours, with half an hour for dinner.

These figures were not taken at a time when there was an unusual depression in the carpet industry. They show the average rate of wages at a time when the carpet business is in its normal condition. There is not a very wide difference between the wages in Austria-Hungary, and in France, Germany and England.

A dispatch from Washington gives these particulars regarding Senator Sawyer's gold mine: "Everybody knows that the venerable Senator Sawyer, of Wisconsin, long ago found a gold mine in the lumber from the forests of the northwest; but few perhaps know that he is renewing his youth as a miner for gold in the rocky farm region in the Upper Potomac country in a county of Maryland, adjacent to Washington, near the romantic Great Falls. That is however the fact. One of the most prominent miners in the gold field which have attracted so much attention in Maryland in the last few years is 'Uncle Phil.' He is mining in the regular California fashion on a farm of 310 acres which he has bought. He has expended $100,000 in machinery and buildings. Dr. Kemper, whom every one in Wisconsin knows, is his superintendent. A shaft has been sunk 170 feet. There is a ten-stamp mill on the place. Will it pay? It is hard to find from the owners exactly what their assays will average. It is rumored that at a depth of sixty-five feet a very rich deposit was struck at the Sawyer mine, paying several thousand dollars a ton. Average estimates place the yield at most of the mines at about $35 or $40 per ton. There is no doubt that gold is being taken out in Montgomery county, and in some places in considerable quantities. It only remains to be seen whether the veins will hold out, or, as with so many Maryland mines come to sudden ending.

Governor Hill told the convention of New York democratic clubs, the other day, that the democratic party stands just where it did a year ago. Of course it does; more than that, it stands just where it did a quarter of a century ago—namely, at the tail-end of the procession of progress and reform. There are no reasons to hope, either, that it will move ahead in the next twenty-five years.

The democratic party is "stuck fast in the mud of ages." It cannot extricate itself. It won't try to push forward. It flounders in the same old mire. It has not the courage nor the enterprise to shake off the dust of time which covers it. Governor Hill was right, only he did not put the time long enough in which his party has also lapsed. The remark made by Hill reminds one of the statement made by one of the Pennsylvania delegates in the democratic national convention in 1884, that whenever the democratic party attempted to go forward it stumbled over the wreck made by broken promises and shattered pledges.

There must be a fearful state of things in Chicago, judging from the following from the Sunday Inter Ocean: "The gambling-house keepers to-day may celebrate their complete victory over Mayor Oregier. All pretenses toward suppression or restriction of their vicious calling appear to have been abandoned. We may hear from time to time of a raid upon the lottery-ticket sellers, for they did not contribute $50,000 to the election of the mayor. But the gamblers proper, the men with hundreds of thousands of capital vested in hell and dens, the devils who lure ignorant youth and dotards into the ante-chambers of hell, the dealers and attendants, the minor 'professionals' who share minor parts of the ill-gotten swag, all these are at ease in Chicago.

The saloons, too, will be open to-day. What the loudest half-bred caterpillar shall consume. The pleasure of gambling walks at noonday and the pestilence of drunkenness destroys till midnight. There are laws for the suppression of both; the mayor could put them into operation by the word of his mouth, but he will not speak the word. Ten great cities enforce the law against Sunday liquor. In the greatest city of the world the saloons are as inaccessible to customers as the board of trade during church hours.

This condition of things is not very surprising when one considers how Mr. Oregier was elected, or rather the class of men that contributed most to his election. He is under profound obligations to the gamblers and the saloon keepers for they gave liberally of their substance that they might lord it over him, and he is permitting them to receive their reward.

A NEIGHBORHOOD ROW.

A FATAL SHOOTING AFFRAY THE OUTCOME.

Anti-Jewish Riot in Louisiana—Philadelphia Police Think They Have Tackled—Various Criminal Matters.

Dubuque, Iowa, Oct. 28.—A feud of twenty years standing was settled Saturday near New Hampton, the county seat of Chickasaw county, by a general battle in which two men were killed and several others wounded.

Thomas Doud, his two sons, Peter McKenna, and a number of other farmers, assembled Saturday at the farm of a man named Albert Smith, to assist him in establishing a feud. A feud has existed between the Douds and the McKennas for twenty years. All the neighborhood has taken sides one way or another, and the men who met were armed to the teeth and prepared for any emergency that might arise. They worked together quietly until 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, when a dispute arose. Hot words passed, when, without moment's warning, Thomas Doud drew his revolver and fired at McKenna, who was standing ten feet away. McKenna was hit in the forehead and the entire top of his head blown off. As he fell a man named Mulvihill, a friend and partisan of McKenna's, shot Doud through the lungs.

Then the battle became general. How many others were wounded can not be learned at this hour. A posse of officers were sent out from New Hampton and late last night Doud's two sons and Mulvihill were brought into the town and locked up. The feud is the result of a long dispute over the ownership of a forty-acre tract of land lying between the farms of Doud and McKenna. Doud claimed the land, and suit was brought to evict him. After a long resistance the suit was successful. McKenna was one of the most active in pushing the suit against his neighbor.

RIOT AT DELHI, LA.

An Armed Mob Attempts to Drive Jewish Clerks Out of the Town.

VICKSBURG, Miss., Oct. 28.—A. D. Simon and J. Felber of New Orleans, employed lately by Mr. T. Hirsch, a prominent merchant of Delhi, La., have arrived here and give the particulars of a riot, which they say took place at 1 o'clock Saturday morning in Delhi, and in which the stores of several Jewish merchants were attacked by an armed mob and fired into. They trace the cause of the disturbance to business rivalry, as the Jews were monopolizing the trade of the town, and say the mob numbered from thirty to one hundred men armed with fully one thousand shots into the stores of Jewish merchants.

Simon and Felber slept in a small room partitioned off at the rear of Hirsch's store. At the hour designated the mob arrived by shots and by bullets crashing through the partition. Some of these trophies they brought away with them and showed around the town. About fifty shots were fired into Hirsch's store, smashing the glass front to atoms. S. Blum & Co. were seriously used and Karpe, Weil & Co.'s windows were battered and broken with bricks. No threats of personal violence were made, nor were Jewish merchants ordered to leave the town, but the witnesses understood that the people desired native clerks to be employed in the stores, and after remaining there Saturday without being disturbed they took their departure. They say the town authorities have promised to investigate the riot and to discipline the mob.

SURE HE HAS TASCOTT.

The Philadelphia Police Chief thinks he has the Much-Wanted Man.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 28.—The mysterious prisoner who is supposed to be Tascott, the Chicago murderer, passed to-day in his cell at the Central station smoking cigarettes and apparently indifferent as to his fate. Chief Wood is so convinced as ever that he is the alleged murderer of Millionaire Snell. The photographs of the prisoner which were taken on Friday were finished yesterday and forwarded immediately to the Chicago police. As Chief Wood picked one up and looked at it he remarked: "That suits me. I would not ask for a better one." He said he would wait till the Chicago people get hold of these photographs, and I'll bet their hair will stand on end.

The suspect begged all day to be allowed to see the newspapers but this request was denied. In conversation with Chief Wood the young man said that he had changed so much in the past two years that people who knew him then would hardly be able to recognize him now.

Among the prisoner's effects also was a deposit book of the National German-American Bank of St. Paul, bearing the name of W. K. Milken. A general release of the prisoner's handwriting and the specimen of Tascott's.

LYNCHED TWO DESPERADOES.

Green McCoy and Milton Haley of the Notorious McCoy Gang Hanged.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Oct. 28.—A mob surrounded the Lincoln county jail in Hamilton Friday night, forced an entrance and shot and killed the two prisoners, took out Green McCoy and Milton Haley, and hanged them to a tree short distance from the jail building.

Haley and McCoy were natives of Kentucky and were allied to the McCoy family, who were notorious for their shooting outlaws, whose murderous feud with the Hatfields is generally familiar to the public. McCoy was engaged in a shooting scrape with Paris Brumfield and about a month ago in company with Haley, he ambushed and attempted to murder Al Brumfield and his wife.

Both victims were badly wounded. McCoy and Haley escaped to Kentucky, but until they had made two more attempts at assassination in the county, in one of which a man named Atkins was wounded.

The two would-be murderers were arrested in Martin county, Kentucky, and on Friday were locked up in the Lincoln county, W. Va., jail. In the absence of definite information it is supposed they were lynched by some of the Hatfield sympathizers.

MURKOW'S DESPERATE GANG.

They Kill a Deputy Sheriff and a Citizen Surrounded in a Swamp.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 28.—Sheriff A. H. Morris of Blount county cornered Rube Burrows and his gang of desperadoes at Budd Ashworth's house near Oneonta, Ala., last night. A desperate fight followed, in which Sheriff Morris was killed and about a month ago in company with Haley, he ambushed and attempted to murder Al Brumfield and his wife.

Elliott, who has negotiated most of the paper that is out, however, declared last night that the total indebtedness would not exceed $200,000; that the assets were nearly, if not quite, $300,000, and that no circumstances could drive the house into bankruptcy at this time.

What is Scrofula

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet, which develops ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors." It is a more formidable enemy than consumption or cancer alone, for scrofula combines the worst possible features of both. Being the most ancient, it is the cause of all diseases or ailments, for very few persons are entirely free from it. How can it be cured? By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. For all affections of the blood Hood's Sarsaparilla is unequalled, and some of the cures it has effected are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula in any of its various forms, be sure to give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.

HE WAS BEATEN TO DEATH.

DR. CRONIN KILLED BY THE BLOWS ON HIS HEAD.

An Exciting Scene in Court Over the Testimony of a Physician—Dinan and His White Horse.

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—The second day of the presentation of evidence in the Cronin case witnessed another crowded court room. The lawyers for the prosecution decided to continue the same line of testimony which was introduced at the previous afternoon session. It was intended to continue the introduction of evidence showing the cause of death, with incidental corroborative evidence as to the identification.

Dr. J. F. Todd, county physician, was the first witness called. He testified that he had seen Dr. Cronin on the night of the murder, and that he was the only person who knew the combination of the lock on the vault in the county physician's office. Witness had not seen the plate and false teeth taken from the corpse at the morgue, and he had not opened the vault since last March.

The purpose of Dr. Todd's testimony was to show that no one but Dr. Cronin could have access to the vault in which the plate was kept.

The defense made no cross-examination. Dr. D. G. Moore of 643 North Hoyne avenue testified that he was present at the autopsy and examined the wounds and the condition of the body. The physician described minutely the wounds found on Dr. Cronin's head in pretty much the same way as had been done previously by Drs. Egbert and Perkins. With regard to the long wound on the back of the head Dr. Moore said it looked as though it was a deep cut, and that it was made by two blows which fell almost on the same spot. In this wound was the flap of skin which had been driven down on the skull without having been detached.

The first blow crushed the skin with the flesh, and the second blow cut the lower end of this piece of skin loose from the head.

Mr. Hynes—Did any of these wounds sever any important artery?

Dr. Moore—Yes, I think the wound on the jaw severed the facial artery and the wound on the back of the head severed the occipital artery.

"That is your opinion, after your examination, as to cause of death of that man?"

"From what I saw I think the death was caused by the wounds."

Dr. Moore said in reply to Mr. Forrester's questions that he had not testified before the coroner's inquest nor the grand jury. On the cross-examination Dr. Moore testified that he made the examination of the body on behalf of the Independent Order of Foresters.

Mr. Forrester examined the witness closely as to the effect of the severing of the arteries.

"These severed arteries cause death?"

"I don't think so."

"What caused death?"

"The wounds."

"Did you find any evidence of brain disease?"

"I did not."

"Can you swear that he did not die of brain disease?"

"I can swear that he did not die of acute brain disease."

"Why?"

"Why, because I know that he was in the full vigor of health, his stomach full of indigestible food and no evidence of disease."

"Can you swear that he did not die of some disease?"

"By exclusion, I can," said Dr. Moore, and then, over Mr. Forrester's objection, the court allowed Dr. Moore to testify on this point. Dr. Moore said that there was no evidence of any cause of death, and he believed that death was caused by the wounds.

In reply to Mr. Forrester Dr. Moore acknowledged having heard part of the testimony of Drs. Egbert and Perkins the previous day, and he read their evidence as published in the newspapers.

"Why did you read that testimony?" queried Mr. Forrester.

"Because I know of no rule of court requiring me to read the testimony."

"Then," said Mr. Forrester, "I will ask ATTORNEY FORRESTER, that that is the testimony of this witness be stricken out. It is a clear violation of the rule of the court."

"I think this is a violation of the rule, and I will strike out this witness' testimony," said the court.

Then there was a scene of intense excitement. Instantly the lawyers for the State were on their feet.

"That rule is to obtain, your honor, we might as well read this case now," shouted Mr. Hynes. "It is impossible to keep witnesses from reading the newspapers."

For a few minutes a sharp legal contest was in progress, the row ending Judge McConnell reversing his ruling and allowing Dr. Moore's testimony to stand. Forrester took an exception.

the fall fruit crop show that grapes and oranges are unusually abundant and that the American lemon is fast crowding out its foreign competitor. Apples, however, are scarce and prices will be high.

The government pomologist, Van Deman, in speaking of the apple crop, said: "New York crops have been almost a complete failure, in some portions of the State, especially in the western part, they proved so poor as to indicate that there will not be a sufficient quantity for the consumption of farmers themselves. On seventy-eight farms in the State of New Jersey, not ten bushels of apples have been raised. The crops of Kansas and Missouri have been excellent and those in Virginia have been fairly good, but in Michigan they are but little better than in New York. The cause of the poor crop of the apple crop is thought to have been frosts which occurred so late in the spring and another factor has been the weather for the greater part of the summer, which caused the prevalence of the disease known among farmers as 'bitter rot'."

TO SPAN THE HUDSON RIVER. A Structure That Will Dwarf the Brooklyn Bridge. NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—James Andrews, of Pittsburgh, Pa., has been in New York for several days, has departed for the West. He came here in connection with the greatest engineering project of modern times—the bridging of the Hudson river from New Jersey and New York shores.

To a reporter he said: "The bridge will certainly be built. The plans have been completed by Engineer Linden of Pittsburgh, and pronounced by the best engineering authorities as perfectly sound. Beside this structure the Brooklyn bridge will be a mere toy. The bill for permission to bridge the Hudson river has already been passed by the New York legislature and is now before the United States Senate."

Mr. Andrews said that the bridge will be 1,500 feet above high-water mark. The piers will be wonderful masses of masonry 500 feet high and broad and deep. The bridge will cost $10,000,000 and will be located somewhere between Fourteenth and Twenty-sixth streets. Those who are to build the bridge are largely railroad men from New York, Philadelphia, and Pittsburgh.

WHY BLAINE DECLINED. Suffering from Paralysis When He Wrote the Famous Florence Letter.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The World publishes a long and remarkable contribution from its correspondent in Florence, Italy, under the head, "A State Secret," which it claims is a true expose of Mr. Blaine's reason for writing the famous letter from Florence during the Presidential campaign of 1888, relating to becoming a candidate for the Republican nomination.

The publication alleges that Mr. Blaine was paralyzed in Italy, speechless for a week, and almost fatally sick, that he became temporarily a hypochondriac and suffered from intense melancholia. It is asserted that he was under the treatment of Dr. Baldwin of Florence, who virtually controlled the writing of the letter, declaring that it was a matter of life or death that he should do so. The World's correspondent says:

"Mr. Blaine had a stroke of paralysis brought on by a chill caught in the Gothard tunnel. Mr. Blaine was prostrated at Milan for twenty-four days. With his convalescence appeared a most distressing form of melancholia, which fully developed after he reached Florence. During this last stage of his long and painful illness, acting on the advice of a conscientious physician, Mr. Blaine wrote the letter of Jan. 23, 1888, withdrawing his name from the list of Presidential candidates."

The World's correspondent claims to have secured his information from a personal interview recently held with Dr. Baldwin at the home of the latter.

REFUSED THE NOMINATION. Mr. Compers Declines to Run as a Senatorial Candidate.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The Republicans and country democracy of the Seventh senatorial district recently nominated Samuel Compers, president of the American labor confederation, as their candidate for state senator from that district against the regular nominee of the Tammany Democracy.

Mr. Compers, president of the American labor confederation, found that it was deemed inadvisable by them for him to accept the nomination, and he has withdrawn from the race, as he prefers to remain president of the American Federation of Labor to entering into the contest for a seat in the legislature.

A Serap of Paper Saves Her Life. It was just an ordinary scrap of wrapping paper, but it saved her life. She was in the latest stages of consumption, told by physicians that she was incurable and was lying on her back, and she weighed less than seventy pounds.

On a piece of wrapping paper she read of Dr. King's New Discovery, and got a sample bottle; it helped her; she bought a full size bottle; for colds and coughs, and grew better fast, continued its use and is now strong, healthy, rosy, plump, weighing 140 pounds.

"THE GREAT CORN PALACE." The committees that have in charge the arrangements for the coming Corn Palace at Sioux City, promise a display far exceeding anything of the character heretofore attempted. The Corn Palace itself, built in the shape of a cornucopia, will fully illustrate the agricultural resources of the vast area of country tributary to Sioux City, and the internal displays will epitomize the progress and enterprise of the State of Iowa.

Workmen are pushing the development of that favored region in which "Corn is King."

To enable all to visit this "Eighth Wonder of the World," the Chicago & Northwestern Railway will sell excursion tickets to Sioux City at half rate, or one fare for the round trip.

The Corn Palace will be open September 23d, and close October 5th, and during that period numerous special trains will be run for the accommodation of visitors.

Tickets and full information can be obtained on application to agents of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company.

BENNETT LAW.

THE AUTHOR EXPLAINS THE MANNER OF ITS PASSAGE AND THE NECESSITY.

Hon. M. J. Bennett, the author of the "Bennett Law," writes the following to the Milwaukee Sentinel, published this morning:

CLYDE, Wis., Oct. 26.—Since the opponents of our public school system have seen fit to indulge in extravagant criticism and misrepresentation of the compulsory education law passed by the legislature for which I am in a measure responsible—I feel called upon to explain my position in regard to it.

The bill received careful consideration by the committee on education both in the assembly and in the senate and both committees unanimously recommended its passage.

It was neither "rushed through" nor "ajly engineered through," as has been charged, but was allowed to take its regular course, and every member of the legislature was given ample opportunity to read it and determine its scope and effect for himself.

While the bill was pending in the assembly the writer caused 300 extra copies of it to be printed, most of which he sent to prominent educators throughout the state, and requested the opinion of each in regard to it, and in every instance in which a reply was made the opinion expressed was favorable to the bill.

Long before a vote was taken upon the measure the writer called the attention of a considerable number of members of both houses to it and requested that they examine it carefully, which they did, and without exception they expressed themselves as heartily in favor of the bill throughout.

The provisions of the law have been so thoroughly explained by the Sentinel and other papers in the state that no reference to them seems necessary at this time.

The writer knows of two parochial schools in his own assembly district in which no English has ever been taught, and the parents of the children never send their children to any other school.

The Bennett law does not require that these or any other schools in the state shall exclude the foreign language now taught in them, but only provides that if the public schools are to take the place of the instruction given shall be in the language of our own country.

This provision seems so just and reasonable that it is strange any one should find fault with it, and yet, on account of this provision in the law, it is denounced by certain German churches as an affront to the German tongue and an unwarranted invasion of the rights of the church.

In laying the Bennett bill before the legislature and advocating its passage, the writer was actuated by no selfish or party motives, but by a sincere desire to promote the cause of education. The law is a good one, and the earnest wish of the writer is that it may remain upon our statute books until the necessities which it is intended to meet have been removed.

M. J. BENNETT.

"But oh! what damned minutes tell me he" who suffers, but waits, who writes, yet means; before he makes up his mind to put out for just twenty-five cents worth of Salvation Oil, the pain-cure.

They say the average politician is getting no more talking about tariff and no tariff, but the other hand he is getting a fresh next morning with the law.

When completed this will be one of the marked improvements in the city, and add greatly to the appearance of North Main street, closing up as it will, a vacant spot in the business portion of that street, besides adding materially to the whole city. The firm of Thoroughgood &amp; Co., now consisting of Aldermen John Thoroughgood and Hon. Fenne Kimball, is one of the prosperous and growing manufacturing establishments of Janesville. The manufacture of cigar boxes was commenced in this city in 1874 by Mr. Frank Stevens, afterwards Mr. Thoroughgood purchased an interest in the factory, and moving to the building now occupied by them and commenced the manufacture of cigar box lumber as well as an increased number of cigar boxes. The business was steadily increasing from year to year, until more commodious quarters were secured in the building now completed.

In the spring of 1883 Hon. Fenner Kimball purchased the interest of Mr. F. G. Stevens in the "Driving factory," the business continuing to increase, notwithstanding the many setbacks on account of inefficient power to operate their machinery. Now they manufacture over three million feet of cigar box lumber, and their trade in cigar boxes is enormous, and still increasing. Both gentlemen are wide-awake, thorough and careful business men, which is amply verified by the financial success of the factory. The good people of Janesville will wish them many years of prosperity, and thank them for the new addition to the business blocks of the city.

A Scurp of Paper Saves Her Life.

It was just an ordinary scrap of wrapping paper, but it saved her life. She was the last stages of consumption, told by physicians that she could not live, and could live only a short time; she weighed less than seventy pounds. On a piece of wrapping paper she read of King's New Discovery, and got a sample bottle; it helped her more, bought a large bottle, it helped her more, bought another, and grew better fast, continued the use and is now strong, healthy, rosy, plump, weighing 140 lbs. ## NEW FACTORY BUILDING.

At the Corner of North Main and Prospect Avenue.

THE CIGAR BOX FACTORY

Of John Thoroughgood &amp; Co., to Be Built this Fall and Operated by Steam.

For several seasons Messrs. Thoroughgood &amp; Co. have been greatly inconvenienced and retarded in their business operation by the lack of sufficient power to operate the machinery in their factory at the corner of North Main street and Pease Court. When not set back for want of power this firm manufactures several million feet of cigar box lumber, besides cigar boxes in endless numbers, shipping to all parts of the union. This season, especially during the past few months, much of their machinery has been idle or only for a portion of the time for the want of sufficient water in the river to move their wheels. The frequent occurrence of this state of affairs, together with many disappointments resulting in not being able to fill their orders, has made it necessary for the firm to look elsewhere for accommodations, and it has been finally determined to build a factory of their own, which will be wholly operated by steam power.

Last week Messrs. Thoroughgood &amp; Co. purchased of the Peter Myers estate, property on the corner of North Main street and Prospect avenue, which has been unoccupied since the year one of the settlement of the original village of Janesville. On this piece of ground they will at once erect a handsome and commodious factory building, and have already commenced clearing the ground for that purpose.

The new building will be of brick, three stories high and basement, having sixty feet front on North Main street and eighty feet on Prospect avenue. In addition to the main building an engine and boiler room will be built in the rear, in which they propose to locate a battery of boilers with capacity sufficient to heat the building in cold weather, and also to operate a fifty-horse power Hamilton Corliss engine.

Ald. Thoroughgood was seen by a Gazette reporter to day, and in reply to questions regarding the building said: "Yes, we are going to build this factory building this fall. Geo. Colling is now at work on the plans, and work on the foundation will begin just as soon as we can get our lumber piles moved off. To-morrow we will have several teams and men at work removing the lumber, and operations will begin in earnest." You see, it is a losing job with us to lay idle for the want of power right in the busy season. I think this is the last season it will occur. We shall depend on steam altogether, and our new building will be large enough to allow us to put in new machinery, which will aid us materially in turning out quick work, and more of it. You see, it is a "ground hog case" with us; we have got to build or quit the business.

When completed this will be one of the marked improvements in the city, and add greatly to the appearance of North Main street, closing up as it will, a vacant spot in the business portion of that street, besides adding materially to the whole city. The firm of Thoroughgood &amp; Co., now consisting of Aldermen John Thoroughgood and Hon. Fenne Kimball, is one of the prosperous and growing manufacturing establishments of Janesville. The manufacture of cigar boxes was commenced in this city in 1874 by Mr. Frank Stevens, afterwards Mr. Thoroughgood purchased an interest in the factory, and moving to the building now occupied by them and commenced the manufacture of cigar box lumber as well as an increased number of cigar boxes. The business was steadily increasing from year to year, until more commodious quarters were secured in the building now completed.

In the spring of 1883 Hon. Fenner Kimball purchased the interest of Mr. F. G. Stevens in the "Driving factory," the business continuing to increase, notwithstanding the many setbacks on account of inefficient power to operate their machinery. Now they manufacture over three million feet of cigar box lumber, and their trade in cigar boxes is enormous, and still increasing. Both gentlemen are wide-awake, thorough and careful business men, which is amply verified by the financial success of the factory. The good people of Janesville will wish them many years of prosperity, and thank them for the new addition to the business blocks of the city.

THE BENNETT LAW.

THE AUTHOR EXPLAINS THE MANNER OF ITS PASSAGE AND THE NECESSITY.

Hon. M. J. Bennett, the author of the "Bennett Law," writes the following to the Milwaukee Sentinel, published this morning:

CLYDE, Wis., Oct. 26.—Since the opponents of our public school system have seen fit to indulge in extravagant criticism and misrepresentation of the compulsory education law passed by the legislature for which I am in a measure responsible—I feel called upon to explain my position in regard to it.

The bill received careful consideration by the committee on education both in the assembly and in the senate and both committees unanimously recommended its passage.

It was neither "rushed through" nor "ajly engineered through," as has been charged, but was allowed to take its regular course, and every member of the legislature was given ample opportunity to read it and determine its scope and effect for himself.

While the bill was pending in the assembly the writer caused 300 extra copies of it to be printed, most of which he sent to prominent educators throughout the state, and requested the opinion of each in regard to it, and in every instance in which a reply was made the opinion expressed was favorable to the bill.

Long before a vote was taken upon the measure the writer called the attention of a considerable number of members of both houses to it and requested that they examine it carefully, which they did, and without exception they expressed themselves as heartily in favor of the bill throughout.

The provisions of the law have been so thoroughly explained by the Sentinel and other papers in the state that no reference to them seems necessary at this time.

The writer knows of two parochial schools in his own assembly district in which no English has ever been taught, and the parents of the children never send their children to any other school.

The Bennett law does not require that these or any other schools in the state shall exclude the foreign language now taught in them, but only provides that if the public schools are to take the place of the instruction given shall be in the language of our own country.

This provision seems so just and reasonable that it is strange any one should find fault with it, and yet, on account of this provision in the law, it is denounced by certain German churches as an affront to the German tongue and an unwarranted invasion of the rights of the church.

In laying the Bennett bill before the legislature and advocating its passage, the writer was actuated by no selfish or party motives, but by a sincere desire to promote the cause of education. The law is a good one, and the earnest wish of the writer is that it may remain upon our statute books until the necessities which it is intended to meet have been removed.

M. J. BENNETT.

"But oh! what damned minutes tell me he" who suffers, but waits, who writes, yet means; before he makes up his mind to put out for just twenty-five cents worth of Salvation Oil, the pain-cure.

They say the average politician is getting no more talking about tariff and no tariff, but the other hand he is getting a fresh next morning with the law.

When completed this will be one of the marked improvements in the city, and add greatly to the appearance of North Main street, closing up as it will, a vacant spot in the business portion of that street, besides adding materially to the whole city.
